

Traditional online advertising systems fail to deliver highly personalized and context-aware ads that align with users' real-time interests, trends, and local relevance.

The ADvantage project aims to bridge this gap by leveraging LLMs and local data sources (trending topics, memes, and weather) to dynamically generate engaging and personalized advertisements. The platform addresses the lack of adaptive, AI-generated ad content for small businesses and individual creators.